

Checking back is something we already know how to do because we do it every day. Here is an example:

Anton isn't sure how to find his way in the car park

